

The Munin Conference on Scholarly Publishing

Call for presentations and posters

Submissions are invited for the 10th Munin Conference on Scholarly Publishing, to be held in Tromsø 30 November–1 December 2015 at UiT The Arctic University of Norway. The Munin Conferences raise and debate questions related to scholarly publishing. This year's keynote speakers and what they will speak about (tentative titles), are:

- Randy Schekman, Nobel Prize-winner in Physiology or Medicine 2013 and professor at University of California, Berkeley: Publishing the most important work in the life sciences.
- Stuart Shieber, Professor of Computer Science in the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences at Harvard University: The role of the HE institutions in scholarly publishing and communication.
- Sabine Hossenfelder, assistant professor for high energy physics at Nordita: How modern communication tools, including social media, may enhance the scholarly discourse.
- Peter Suber, Director of the Harvard Office for Scholarly Communication: What is OA and where is it going – in a conversation with Caroline Sutton, Co-Founder & Publisher at Co-Action Publishing.

We hereby welcome abstract submissions for presentations and posters for this year's conference, on topics including but not limited to:

- The role of (the HE) institutions in developing/transforming scholarly publishing
- Assessments and evaluations based on scholarly publishing output at the institutional and individual level
- The role of the journals and the mission of publishing: Quality verification, branding, discourse, open science agent and more
- Micropublications: E.g. twitter, wikis, blogs, communication tools
- Research data

Please indicate whether your contribution will be a long (30 minutes incl. Q&A) or a short (20 minutes incl. Q&A) presentation, and/or a poster.

Please note! - Submission guidelines and instructions

The program committee will select contributions on the basis of the quality of the individual abstract, as well as the relevance for the overall conference program.

Important dates:

Deadline for abstract submission: 1 August 2015
